

Preface

Volume 2 Number 2

April 2017

The issue of April 2017 was released. The main topic in this issue is material chemistry for the future life. As we know well, Indonesia is archipelago country with various natural resources including materials, ores, and natural products.

The small aspects of that topic are covered in this issue. Please fell free to cite the article to your research group. We believe that although is the small part but the impact for the future will be significantly affected.

We also invite all scientists to submit their manuscript to Science and Technology Indonesia. The guideline for author is available in the homepage of this journal.

Editorial Team